Community Jewish High is guided by Jewish Values and Community Responsibility

Our expectation is that every student and faculty member's behaviors reflect Jewish values. In addition, we understand that we are each responsible not only for ourselves, but each other. We must all understand that our words and our actions have consequences.

As we welcome a new year of learning and growth, let us remember the values that guide us:

1. Kindness – Chesed: Treating everyone with compassion and care. Being inclusive of everyone, especially those who may feel left out or different.
2. Empathy – Rachamim: Understanding how others feel and responding with sensitivity. Listening without judgment, speaking with respect, even when we disagree.
3. Appropriate Behavior – Derech Eretz: Acting with dignity and respect in and outside of our classrooms. Avoiding actions that disrupt learning or harms others emotionally or physically.
4. Safe Space: Each of us is responsible for creating and maintaining a school environment where everyone feels safe to be themselves – physically, emotionally, and spiritually. Bullying, exclusion, and any form of hate speech will not be tolerated.
5. Appropriate Speech – Lashon Tov: Our words hold weight. We will all strive to use words to uplift and not hurt. We will avoid gossip (lashon hara), insults, and language that is disrespectful or inappropriate. Our words should reflect kavod (honor) for all.
6. Being a Role Model – Dugma Ishit: Each of us can serve as an example to others, especially to those who are younger or those who look up to us. Leading involves responsibility, integrity, honesty, and a positive attitude.

Each member of our CJH family is valued and being part of our CJH community is a privilege. The above are guidelines for creating a positive and welcoming environment for growth and learning. If these guidelines are violated, there will be consequences that may include:

- Reflection and conversation with a faculty member and administrator
- Contact with parents/guardians
- Restorative justice practices or community service
- Lose of privileges at school
- Suspension or other disciplinary actions in serious cases
